Excellence in Leadership

Excellence in Social Justice – Individual

This award recognizes individual students whose efforts have enhanced the campus climate as it relates to race, gender identity, sexual orientation, religion, culture, disabilities, and wellness. This award will be given to the student that exemplifies social justice excellence by embracing differences and showing a commitment to multiculturalism, enhancing understanding of populations within the Wellesley College community and demonstrating commitment and concern for the welfare of others.

Recipient

Diamond Sharp '11

Excellence in Social Justice – Group

This award recognizes the student organization/group whose efforts have enhanced the campus climate by engaging the community in constructive conversations about difference, through contribution and service to multicultural populations and through innovation and creativity in the overall planning and presentation of new or established programs.

Recipients

Advocates for North Korean Human Rights (ANKHR)
Amnesty International

Unsung Hero Award – Individual

This award recognizes a student for the outstanding work the person does behind the scenes. The individual may not hold an executive position within an organization, but consistently works to improve the organization, group or cause. This award further recognizes someone who goes above and beyond their responsibilities as a general member and does so to enhance the overall outcome of the student organization, program, group or initiative.

Recipient

Marisol Ardon '13

Excellence in Programming – Group

This award recognizes outstanding planning and implementation of campus events by student organizations/ groups. Specifically, events of note include (but are not limited to): events that are new this year, existing programs that were greatly improved upon this year, events that show a responsible use of alcohol, non-alcoholic events, and theme or series-based events.

Recipient

Davis Museum Student Advisory Committee

Excellence in Leadership – Individual

The Excellence in Leadership Award is presented to students who exemplify outstanding leadership, service and commitment to the Wellesley College community.
